

About SIV

I have been a singer, ever since I as a little girl stood on my mother's lap and sang: "Christmas, Christmas, Christmas has come" at one of Wärtsilä's Christmas parties, with an audience of more than 800 people. Nowadays I still sing as happily as I did back then, though not on my mother's lap anymore, but with the guitar in my arms instead.

Through the years I have written a number of songs, but only a few of them have reached this far. When I was a little girl, one day my father came outside to look for me. I sat on the swing and sang a hit melody by myself. After having listened to me for a while he asked me "Why don't you make your own song?". Next time he came out he heard me sing in step with the swing:

"Sun and summer is all over
Flowers shares the ground with clover
All the birds and bumblebees sit on my bike and on my knees"

One must admit that this was my first own song. Now, 55 years later, I still make songs in the same way, only with the tiny difference that the swing is replaced with my hand striking the strings of the guitar.

The songs have given me an exciting and rich life, and I am very happy to finally be able to present a genuine production called:
